About the awards

The world of brand design and strategic counsel is finally attracting a rich vein of excellent and exciting young talent. Transform magazine's Young Contenders programme recognises those who are making their mark in the formative stages of their careers. It benchmarks the next generation of strategic, creative and innovative brand specialists. It celebrates those who are shaping our future brands as well as identifying those companies who understand the importance of investing in the leaders of tomorrow.

Now is the time to recognise and reward your staff and to highlight what makes your approach to their development different.

Why should I enter?

Only the trailblazing strategic, creative and client-facing brand specialists are named Transform's Young Contenders. Those who make it have challenged existing best practice or conventional thinking and have crafted new solutions in rebranding and brand development. Those selected for this prestigious list stand out as the most promising of their generation of creative and strategic thinkers. Entrants can be based in-house or in an agency.

All shortlisted nominees are invited to celebrate at the awards presentation in December 2019.

But why enter?
